Care can be access when it is needed

Meaningful career paths and opportunities

Keep in touch and help spread the word

Help spread the word so everyone with experience can share their views.

If you know anyone else who may wish to have their say, please invite them to visit the project web page and sign up to the online sharing event on Friday 21 April: www.adss.cymru

People receiving care and their families, as well as care workers and providers, are all invited.

Email us

You can email linda.jones@adss.cymru if you have any further thoughts or views.

If you would like to share your story as part of a short film for the project, we would love to hear from you. Please send Linda an email with the subject line, 'Digital stories'.

Anyone with experience of domiciliary care is welcome to get in touch.

Your views will shape the study.

Thank you for sharing your views and experiences. Nothing new will be proposed in the final study without those with experience having had their say.
